A federation is a political entity characterized by a union of partially self-governing provinces, states, or other regions under a central federal government. In a federation, the self-governing status of the component states, as well as the division of power between them and the central government, is typically constitutionally entrenched and may not be altered by a unilateral decision of either party, the states or the federal political body. Alternatively, a federation is a form of government

World federalism is an extension of Wilsonian idealism, and Baratta is as much an idealist as predecessors such as Harris Wofford, Cord Meyer, Louis Sohn, and Grenville Clark, whom he rescues from oblivion.

Paradoxically, however, Baratta is a realist, at least about the failures of his own cause. Politics of World Federation | Journal of American History ...
